E.V. ROBERTS' EXPANSION TO INCLUDE AS9120 CERTIFIED ATLANTA DISTRIBUTION CENTER

Customers will benefit from greater in-stock materials access, faster delivery times and broader service and technical expertise.

Carson, CA, October 7, 2014, E.V. Roberts – a leading distributor, manufacturer and packager of adhesives, sealants, and surface treatments for aerospace, composites, electronics, automotive, and other specialty industrial applications – today announced its plans to open a new distribution facility in early Q4 2014 to service its growing customer base in the Southeastern United States.

For over 75 years, E.V. Roberts has been providing superior engineered materials, impeccable service and technical support, and its proprietary 100% accuracy inspection guarantee to thousands of customers in over 65 countries and 7 continents around the globe – all from its headquarters in Carson, California. Now, the privately held company spreads its Western roots and heads East.

“Atlanta is a strategic location for E.V. Roberts and our key channel partners Henkel, 3M, and Momentive because it offers rich distribution opportunities in a ripe but underserved market,” said Ron Cloud, CEO of E.V. Roberts. “Our customers have always chosen us because of our deep supplier relationships, unwavering commitment to quality and service, and technical excellence – now they can access that value more efficiently than ever before.”

Broader Service and Support

E.V. Roberts' customers are excited about the additional presence and the value that it will bring to their business. The new E.V. Roberts location effectively cuts delivery time in half and brings a wealth of technical support and service to the East Coast. For those in need of same-day delivery of materials with air, weight and temperature control restrictions, the distributor has already lined up couriers to meet those stringent requirements and a will-call for those customers who choose to utilize their own transportation. In addition, the window for toll-free customer service will expand to reflect the East Coast time zone, thereby rounding out the service experience.

AS Certified, In-Stock and Ready for Use

E.V. Roberts will carry the full scope of aerospace and industrial products, including Henkel, 3M, and Momentive adhesives and films, sealants, surface treatment technologies, resins, curing agents and more. Resin Formulators, the company's proprietary custom formulation division developed to service those customers with unmet commercial needs, will be accessible from the Atlanta center. The facility has already been approved for AS9120 certification, in line with its rigorous quality certifications and standards. It is equipped with 400 square feet of cold room and freezer storage, rounding out the 2,600 square feet already available in the Carson headquarters.
